Meeting Set On YC Financing

On November 23, 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon, representatives of the Carmel Unified School District, City of Carmel, Carmel Youth Center Adult Board, and the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest will meet at the Irving Lundborg offices on Dolores Street to discuss placing the Carmel Youth Center financing on a "more stable basis."

At present the Youth Center receives the bulk of its money for operating expenses from the Community Chest, around $6000. The school district donates $3500. Several thousand dollars are raised by the youth center members' selling food and pop at the Crosby Tournament and similar activities.

Monday night the school board approved a joint powers agreement with the city which would enable the school district to continue its contribution of $3500 to the youth center, but at the time, board member George Yates emphasized that the contribution was only for this fiscal year, "since it is already budgeted" and before the board budgeted money for the youth center next year, school board, center adult board, community chest and city representatives should meet and try to work out a more stable means of financing the center.

Such a meeting became urgent this week with the development of a movement in Carmel Valley for formation of a recreation district to finance a valley youth center. Carmel Youth Center opened membership to Valley youngsters last year when the Valley schools annexed to the Carmel Unified School District.

Invited to the November 23 meeting: Mayor John Chitwood and a representative of the city whom he is to appoint; P. A. McCreery, chairman of the Youth Center Adult Board and a representative of his choice; George Yates and Grant Fletcher, school board members; Rollo Payne, chairman of the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest.

School board representatives will propose that a recreation district be established which could support the youth center through taxes.

Several years ago, William Wakefield, director of the school district year-round recreation program, proposed a recreation district to raise tax funds to pay for operation of the school recreation program, The Carmel Foundation, The Youth Center, and finance purchase of land for green belt and parks. Neither Carmel Foundation nor the Youth Center took favorably on the proposal.

Merchants Asked To Register For Contest

Merchants planning to enter indoor and outdoor displays in the Christmas decoration contest sponsored by the Carmel Business Association are asked to send notice to this effect to Mrs. Helen Burger, Business Association secretary, according to Walt Pilot, chairman of the Christmas decoration contest committee.

Only displays which have been entered in the contest will be judged, Mr. Pilot emphasizes.

Arthur Dahl, Investment Counsel, Is Leader For World's Youngest Religion

BY BOB KALLER

Arthur L. Dahl, a national leader of the Baha'i Faith, one of the world's youngest religions, manages to combine a flourishing investment counsel business in Carmel, with work and travel throughout the United States in his spiritual capacity, with no apparent strain.

A native-born Californian, School and Stanford, and helped found a San Francisco investment counsel firm a short time after graduation. Previously he had married a girl who had become a Baha'i, and little by little he found his interest captured and his life changed.

The first question that everyone always asks, says Dahl, is "What is a Baha'is. Briefly, it means a follower of a religion founded in Persia in 1844. The essential message of this faith is the oneness of mankind," he points out, "the coming together of all nations, peoples, races, classes and religions."

Dahl himself joined the group in 1943 and quickly found himself more and more absorbed in its work. The group itself has some two million members throughout the globe, with about eight thousand in the United States, centered in a headquarters in Wilmette, Illinois. Since May 1958 Dahl has been national treasurer of the organization.

"What attracted me to this particular faith, as much as any other factor perhaps," Dahl explains, "was its message of progressive revelation. In other words, Baha'is accept all the major prophets such as Christ, Moses, Buddha, etc., and the founders of all the world religions such as Christianity, Judaism and Islam, believing them to be the inspiration and cause of world civilizations that have followed in their wake. On the other hand, Baha'is do not believe in the multitude of sects and divisions now existing."

Dahl says that this message of a

Pine Cone Welcomes Newton Goodrich's New Little Daughter

Newton Goodrich, Pine Cone composing room foreman, was relatively calm on Tuesday afternoon, but staff members were agog until 3:33 o'clock when news of the birth of Laura Leigh Goodrich was received over the telephone from the Osteopathic General Hospital in Salinas.

Newton emerged from behind cutting-bench goggles to receive congratulations on the birth of his new daughter, who weighed five pounds, three and one-half ounces, then left for Salinas bearing good wishes to his wife, Norine, from the entire staff.

Also excited about Laura Leigh's birth were her sister, Kathie, nine years old, and her brother, Mark, who will be seven this month.

Yet to meet their newest grandchild are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Menzel of San Jose and Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Goodrich of Hollister.

Laura Leigh is a Californian of several generations ancestry in both her mother's and father's families. She will be a second generation Goodrich to grow up in Carmel. Her father attended Sunset School and Carmel High School, graduating from the latter in 1948. He served his apprenticeship in the Pine Cone Shop, and except for a short period with the San Jose Mercury Herald, has been with the Pine Cone since 1947.

Highlands Assn. In Furor Over "Election" Coup

A state of controversy, challenge and near chaos prevailed at last night's meeting of the Carmel Highlands Association when it was discovered that persons packing the Firehouse had elected a new president, Charles G. Sawyer, who was not a dues-paying member of the organization, also that the majority of those attending the meeting were not association members.

Charles Gardner Kills His Wife, Daughters, Self

Coroner Christopher Hill is investigating the death of Charles Richard Gardner, 38, Pebble Beach; his wife, Bette, and his two daughters, Randy Lee, 13, and Diane, 8. A neighbor discovered the bodies at 5:00 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Gardner home.

Gardner had apparently killed his wife and daughters with a sledge hammer and then shot himself.

According to Coroner Hill, Gardner had killed his wife while she slept, with a single blow on the head with the hammer, gone to the neighboring bedroom and killed his sleeping daughters in the same manner, then shot himself through the temple with a 45 automatic pistol. His body was found on the floor at the foot of his wife's bed.

Dr. H. G. Crellin, county pathologist, was performing autopsies on the four bodies this morning in an attempt to fix more accurately the time of death, which, according to Hill occurred some time after 5:00 o'clock Monday evening.

Tuesday's and Wednesday's newspapers, left lying on the porch, had caused the neighbor to investigate. Monday's had been taken in.

Friends and relatives are unable to account for the tragedy. Gardner was a devoted husband and father, according to his brother, John Gardner of Whittier. He said his brother had been under treatment recently, for severe headaches.

Gardner had been a World War II bomber pilot. He came to Pebble Beach seven years ago from Whittier. A free lance artist, he had also written a biography of Vice President Richard Nixon, which has not been published.

Norberg's "Many People" Fail To Expose Youth Center

The promised expose of the Carmel Youth Center at the Carmel Unified School District meeting Monday night consisted in a complaint by one individual that the older members of the center are allowed to smoke and that there is too wide a spread in age, 13 - 21.

Councilman Gunnar Norberg, who told the city council last month that "many people" think the youth center lacks proper guidance and moral restraints, but refused to reveal the center's critics by name or make concrete their charges, invited the "many people" to back him up at the School Board meeting.

Mrs. Susan Ransome alone spoke

The election of Mr. Sawyer as president of the Highlands Association would be no small matter. He is the owner of one of the largest parcels of land in the eight mile down coast property owners' master plan now before the county planning commission for approval. A recommendation of the plan by the Highlands Association will be sought by the planning commission.

Carmel Highlands resident Francis Heisler stated this morning that on Sunday he realized the election meeting of the Highlands Association would conflict with last night's Music Society program. Fearing that there would not be a quorum at the meeting as many residents would be at the concert, he endeavored, to no avail, to have the association's election meeting last night postponed.

Arriving at the meeting, however, Mr. Heisler stated he saw the house was full, although he did not recognize many of the persons present.

Mrs. Edna Parratt, vice president of the Highlands Association, was chairman of the meeting. The nominating committee of the Association, composed of Mrs. Laidlaw Williams, John H. Schroder and Will Shaw, had recommended a slate of officers for the coming year to be presented to the membership for election last night. Officers the committee recommended were William K. Stewart, president, Mrs. Edna Parratt, vice president, and Mrs. Marion Douglas, secretary.

This slate was presented. Then from the floor, Mr. Sawyer was nominated for president. He was elected by a vote of 23-8.

Mr. Sawyer's eligibility was questioned by Mrs. Virginia Shaw. Further protests ended in Mr. Heisler reading that part of the Highlands Association constitution governing membership and eligibility for office. It was discovered that Mr. Sawyer had not paid dues in the Highlands Association and was ineligible to be president, although a resident of the area. He immediately paid his dues.

Controversy resulted and almost became chaos. The chairman was unable to control the meeting because of frequent, heated interruptions until Wilbur B. Wilkin, (Continued on Page Four)

SHIFT IN MEETING DATES

Because the regular meeting date, yesterday, was a holiday, the Carmel Arts Commission will meet tonight, 5:00 o'clock in city hall.

The Carmel Planning Commission has moved its regular meeting time forward one week. It will combine its study session with a regular meeting at 4:00 o'clock Wednesday (November 18.) The regular meeting, November 23, was thought too close to Thanksgiving Day.

'BIG GAME' AT PACIFIC GROVE FRIDAY NIGHT

Monterey Peninsula's 'Big Game' is slated to unfold at the Pacific Grove High Stadium this Friday night when the Carmel Padres and the Pacific Grove Breakers battle for the coveted "Shoe." Past performances and season records mean little when the Padres and Breakers get together in the Peninsula natural. Carmel has a 6-0 record for the season with wins over Andrew Hill, Gilroy, King City, Gonzales, San Lorenzo and Hollister while Pacific Grove's 5-2 record shows wins over King City, Junipero, Gonzales, Live Oak, and San Lorenzo. The Breakers dropped close decisions to Gilroy and Hollister for their only two losses.

In backs, Logan, Bommarito, Winter, and McGaughey, the Breakers have a speed advantage over the Padres but the power seems to lie with the Carmel backfield of Faia, Hansen, Wise, and Draper. Up front, the same situation prevails with Pacific Grove having the speed and Carmel enjoying the weight advantage. Pacific Grove's passing game has been a bit more effective than Carmel's but the Padres haven't had to rely on the overhead game since the early part of the season.

Twenty-two seniors will don the Red & Gray spangles for the last time in Friday's game with Pacific Grove. Saying good-bye to football at Carmel High will be Toby Edson, Dan Armstrong, Brian LeNeve, Jim Cole, Tim Mitchell, Alfredo Dopic, Curt Van Arsdale, Ron Adams, Fred Bucher, Dick Goularte, Doug McClurg, Captain Harrison Hilbert, Chuck Hoisington, Russ Wise, David Fuller, Darrell Clark, Julio Montenegro, Captain Ron Faia, Joe Zoellin, Dave Hansen, Ed Wilson, and Tom Green.

Football action in the Coast Counties Athletic League B-Division matches natural rivals in games this Friday night. Hollister and Gilroy have at it on the Hollister gridiron with the winner getting a possible tie for first place and the loser being relegated to third place. Both teams have nearly identical records in league play this season and the outcome is strictly a toss-up. Pacific Grove hosts league-leading Carmel and a win for the Breakers would give them a tie for second place in the title race. The Padres assured themselves of a piece of the title by whipping Hollister last Friday but need a win over arch-rival Pacific Grove to be undisputed champs. This game is always tough to figure with upsets being the rule rather than the exception. The Gonzales-King City natural matches two single-wing teams with 1-4 records in league play. King City has a big weight advantage in this one but the Spartans are scrappy and they have good speed. Winless San Lorenzo takes on equally winless Live Oak at Harvey West Stadium in Santa Cruz in a battle for the cellar. San Lorenzo put up stubborn battles against Carmel and Pacific Grove before bowing to superior manpower and figures to clip the Acorns by three or four touchdowns.

PADRES UPSET HOLLISTER 38 TO 14

A crisp, blocking hard-running Carmel High football team put on a powerful offensive show at the Hollister High Stadium last Friday night and when the final whistle blew in the crucial CCAL B-division game, the Padres were in front of the Haybaler's 38 to 14. Picked by grid experts to run roughshod over B-league opposition this season, the Hollister crew was shackled by the hard-hitting Padre defense and gained less than 50 yards during the entire game. While Brian LeNeve, Tim Mitchell, Paul Rice & Company were stopping the Haybaler offense, the quick-hitting Carmel line opened gaping holes in the Hollister forward wall which produced long runs by quarterback Frank Mayo and halfbacks Mike Draper and Ron Faia. The explosive Carmel offense allowed the Padres to keep game control all the way and for the second game in a row the Padres didn't have to punt the ball. Mike Draper, junior halfback, led the Carmel ground-gainers with 136 yards in 14 carries. Quarterback Frank Mayo scored two of the touchdowns and passed to another while halfback Ron Faia chewed up 93 yards and scored one touchdown.

Carmel hit the scoreboard twice in the first period as Draper scampered 47 yards for the first touchdown and Mayo passed a 15-yarder to Doyle Clayton for TD number two. The Padres made it 18-0 early in the second period when fullback Dave Hansen powered off the Hollister left tackle for the score. Doyle Clayton's first three kicks were wide of the mark as the Haybaler put on a nine-man rush. Hollister put on its only sustained drive of the game late in the second quarter when halfback Ted Schmidt found running room on the clever Haybaler double reverse. Schmidt found the end zone with less than 30-seconds remaining in the first half and fullback Carrasco split the uprights to leave the half-time score 18-7.

Stung by the second period Hollister surge, the Padres hit for two scores in the third quarter with Frank Mayo running for one and Ron Faia plunging over for the other. Frank Mayo snuck across with touchdown number six midway in the fourth period and with Clayton's two successful conversions the Padres had their 38 points. Hollister got a quick six in the waning minutes of the final quarter when Ted Schmidt, a whale of a football player in this game, took a short pass and rambled 48 yards for the score. Carrasco's kick was on the mark and the final score read 38-14.

Carmel's sturdy defensive crew put on one of its finest efforts of the season as it controlled the ever-dangerous Haybaler offense. Manning the stopper-unit were Toby Edson, Brian LeNeve, Tim Mitchell, John Wilkin, Doug McClurg, Captain Harrison Hilbert, Paul Rice, Fred Bucher, Bill Coleman, Darrell Clark, Russ Wise, and Frank Mayo.

An outstanding job of blocking by fullback Dave Hansen gave the Carmel halfbacks plenty of running room and shook them loose for many long-gainers. Lending excellent downfield blocking support were guards Ron Adams, John Wilkin, Doug McClurg, Nick Melitor, and Dick Goularte.

Carmel's junior-varsity found the Hayseeds tougher than anticipated but came through with a 12-7 win in a rough tough tussle. An alert pass interception by halfback Lee Oleson when the Little Padres were trailing 7-6 pulled the game out of the fire for Coach Fred Rainer's spirited crew. Lee, just back from the wars after a battle with the injury bug, picked off a Hollister aerial on the 24-yard line and scooted in for the clinching touchdown. The eager Hollister defense put a blanket over the Carmel passing game but backs Oleson, John Draper, and Dan Moore powered through the tackle spots for over 300 yards during the game.

More league action for the Padre gridders this Friday night when they travel to Pacific Grove for a pair of games with the fast-improving Breaker squads. Junior-varsity kickoff at 6:00 o'clock with the varsity fray slated to get underway at 8:00 o'clock.

TWO AMBULANCE CALLS

Carmel volunteer fireman answered two calls for the Red Cross ambulance on Tuesday morning. Carmel police requested the ambulance for a medical emergency at Monte Verde Street and Ocean Avenue at 8:38 o'clock. Firemen responded and took Cortez Baston of Seaside to the Peninsula Community Hospital.

An hour later, at 9:44 o'clock, firemen took the ambulance to San Luis Road and San Pedro Lane in response to a medical emergency call from the State Division of Forestry.

George Lafave, two years old, had been almost strangled when he became entangled in a clothesline.

Carmel firemen used the resuscitator to revive the child, then transported him to the Peninsula Community Hospital. He was released later.

Angry Voice Is Worth Hearing In Osborne's Play At Golden Bough

By VIRGINIA SHAW

To the spokesmen of contemporary world theatre whose disturbing and provocative work has been presented here in recent months—Beckett, Ionesco, Sartre, not to mention Arthur Miller and Tennessee Williams—has been added one of the strongest new voices, that of England's most celebrated "angry young man," John Osborne.

Osborne's Look Back In Anger opened last weekend at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre; and whatever its merits or demerits as a play, it is a stunning performance.

The play's protagonist, an embittered young middle-class intellectual named Jimmy Porter, embodies with ferocious vitality the reaction of the post-war generation of English writers and playwrights to an increasingly mechanistic, inhuman world in which traditional values are rapidly becoming obsolete.

Harshly realistic, Look Back In Anger is set in a drab flat in a Midlands town where Jimmy runs a small candy stall. Jimmy himself is an aggressively unpleasant character. Selfish, sulky, demanding, he vents his rage against class, society, women and the world in tirades against his well-bred, beaten-down wife, Alison. We are given to understand that he is educated and has at least some talent, and that he is not without tenderness and a certain fanatic sort of moralism. But Jimmy feels cheated, betrayed, suffocated, and there is little he can do about it but talk—and occasionally madden the other occupants of the rooming house with his trumpet playing.

Sharing the Porter's untidy one-room digs is Jimmy's easygoing partner, Cliff, the only friend he hasn't managed to drive away. The menage is joined by Helena, an itinerant actress friend of Alison's. The tension and emotional pressure built up through the relationships of these characters is relieved by moments of wry comedy and even raucous horseplay, but all is dominated by Jimmy's abusive ravings. What makes him howl? It seems to come down to his conviction that there are no good, brave causes left to fight for. Our forbears took care of that, he says, and there is little to look forward to but the impersonal annihilation of the next war.

Directed by Frederick Rider, Look Back In Anger is presented wisely and well, and the acting in general—and of Eric Barnes in particular—is of a very high order.

In his totally convincing portrayal of Jimmy, Eric Barnes lets one see not only his anger and bitterness but also the subtler qualities which made Jimmy first appear to Alison as a sort of shining young god and to his friend, Cliff, as an object of pity and compassion. It is hard to see how his performance could be improved upon.

Excellent too is Ron Vaad as Cliff, the only completely sympathetic character in the play. The relaxed, warm-natured personality he projects is set off effectively against Jimmy's restless irritability. Vaad and Barnes carry the play smoothly over some moments which could have been a little shaky. Director Rider is fortunate in having two such finished performers.

The two feminine roles contrived by Osborne each seem somewhat ambivalent, and this probably accounts for the fact that neither Alison nor Helena come through as strongly as do Jimmy and Cliff. Rosamond Beck-Meyer's portrayal of the perhaps too-submissive Alison gains in strength and depth as the play progresses, and her acting in the final scene is especially moving. The part of Helena is more uneven still, but Frankie Conley deals with it for the most part quite successfully.

Edward Kuster performs, with his usual competence as Alison's father, Colonel Redfern, whose position in society and the military—he is a retired officer of the colonial service in India—are particular objects of Jimmy's resentment.

The fine work of director and cast is matched by set director Ronnie Cummings, who has contrived a depressingly accurate representation of a shabby furnished flat. Stage manager is Nick Zanides, assisted in the production by Sally Reichard and Constance Bestor. Stanley Glowacki composed original music which is used in the play, and Phil Rodriguez contributes some off-stage trumpet improvisations.

Look Back In Anger commands the attention and involvement of its audience. It is a play which is not easily "turned off." The actors take no curtain calls, and the illusion created by the play is left disturbingly intact. The angry voice which John Osborne raises is one very much worth hearing.

Look Back In Anger plays Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings only, beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

Community Chorus Needs Male Singers

Male singers, especially basses, are needed for the Community Chorus directed by John Farr with Peggy Aitkenhead as accompanist.

The choral group meets on Tuesday evenings at 7:30 o'clock in Carmel High School Music Room. They are preparing a Christmas Concert appearance on December 20 and find their repertoire of traditional and modern Christmas songs is limited for want of a large male chorus section. Other singers will also be welcomed at rehearsals.

Frederick Search

Frederick Preston Search, internationally known concert cellist, composer and conductor, died on Monday afternoon following a heart attack in his home on the Jamesburg Road in Upper Carmel Valley.

Forty-five years ago, Frederick Search came to Carmel when his parents, the late Professor and Mrs. Preston W. Search, established a home here at the corner of Thirteenth Avenue and Monte Verde Street. He was active in the early musical life of Carmel and, in 1952, donated his library of chamber music scores to the Harrison Memorial Library. Speaking of this gift he said, "I would like to see more Carmelites get out their fiddles."

Mr. Search was born in Pueblo, Colorado, on July 22, 1889. His father was an eminent American educator. Both his parents were talented musicians and recognized their son's musical gifts when he was a small boy. Frederick Search purchased his first cello with money he earned selling poultry and, at the age of ten, began studies on this instrument. Three years later he was giving concerts on transcontinental tours.

He first studied the cello in Germany with the court cellist of Saxe-Weimar, then spent two years at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston working under Josef Adamowsky, followed by five years of study with Julius Klengel at the Royal Conservatory of Music, in Leipzig, Germany.

Also in Leipzig, Frederick Search studied composition with Gustav Schreck, cantor of the Bach Choir; harmony with Richard Hoffman; conducting with Arthur Nikisch. He was also European music critic for American magazines during this period.

For the next 25 years Frederick Search was acclaimed as one of the finest cello players in America and Europe. He appeared in recitals on both continents, was first cellist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and appeared as soloist with other famous orchestras.

He also attracted widespread attention with his musical compositions. They included cello solos, string quartets, concertos, sonatas and two symphonies which were published and played with leading orchestras. His Festival Overture was played at the San Francisco Exposition in 1915. At the time of his death, Mr. Search was hoping Monterey County Symphony Conductor Earl Murray would choose one of his compositions for performance under Mr. Murray's stated policy of using works of a local composer on one program this season.

Mr. Search cancelled all concert engagements during World War I to volunteer for Navy service. He became head bandmaster and orchestra leader at Mare Island where one of his violinists was Paul Whiteman. He earned the title of First Musician in the Navy during this service.

From 1920-1932 Frederick Preston Search directed the orchestra at old Hotel Del Monte. He supervised orchestra, band and choral (Continued on Page Fifteen)

Highlands Assn. In Furor Over Election Coup

(Continued from Page One) former Wee Willie Wilkin of professional football fame, forcefully protested, "You don't treat a lady this way. What kind of manners have you?"

The meeting subsided and those present agreed that new officers of the Highlands Association would be elected next month. Those eligible to elect new officers to be Association members who had paid their dues prior to last evening's meeting. Will Shaw made this motion.

Last night Mr. Sawyer had hoped to obtain from Highlands Association membership approval of plans for a new subdivision below the Highlands along Highway 1. During the controversy, he stated that Highlands Association members repeatedly opposed new subdivisions before the county planning commission. He emphasized that residents in subdivisions outside the Highlands area proper now outnumber Association members 3-1 and implied new residents were prepared to take over the Association. Mr. Sawyer's support last evening appeared to come from residents of Carmel Riviera, a subdivision which he was instrumental in developing. He is also associated with the suggested new subdivision development further south, now being studied by the county planning commission.

Fire Chief Seizo Kodani cooled the flaming tempers when he remarked to departing members, "The firehouse is a good place for hot meetings."

We have letters from Edith Lodge, Salem, Virginia, and Helen Salz, San Francisco, asking for a publisher's release of poems of theirs which were first published in the Pine Cone and which are now to be included in the Golden Year, Poetry Society of America's anthology, scheduled for publication in 1960 by the Fine Editions Press.

We sent releases, as we are always glad to do in such cases.

Edith Lodge's poem, Song of the Hill, was published in the September 16, 1959 issue of the Pine Cone; Late, by Helen Salz, in the July 31, 1953 issue.

SONG OF THE HILL

Here
High on the hill
I have studied the quiet way
Of the stone
And all that is still
And a year goes past like a day ...
Here
Taught by the deer
And the lizard,
where shadows are long
I have learned the attentive ear,
The breeze and the leaf and the bird
Are a song for the quiet to hear
The high sweet timeless song
That only the quiet have heard.

Alone
In the indigo shadows
As long and cool as the trees
A year goes past like a day
High on the hill
Here ...

—Edith Lodge.

LATE,

An embassy of doves
hovers over the river
over the tangled shores.

But the mustang-hearted have made a final departure and the eagles have fallen—

Winds charge at the trees of yesterday
blow sand from the almost-graves, while the village is a pail of spilled water.

Oh embassy of doves
you are late flying!

—Helen Salz.

In answer to her complaint of the smoking, Mayor John Chittwood, who was in the audience, said that only high school juniors and seniors are allowed to smoke at the center, but failed to add that only juniors and seniors who are allowed to smoke at home are allowed to do so at the center.

Following the meeting, a number of high school students surrounded Norberg, trying to pin down specific charges against the center.

Norberg continued to quote "many people." Their charges, according to Norberg: the center's corridors are too dimly lighted; smoking shouldn't be allowed; membership takes in the too young and the too old; the adult board should hold regular meetings at a specified place so parents who have complaints of the management of the youth center can appear and complain.

Sketch Of Historic San Jose Murals At Carmel Library

The work of Geza St. Galy is on display in the Carmel Crafts Guild's exhibit case at Harrison Memorial Library in November and early December, illustrating especially his tile murals, the latest of which was a 22x11 foot historic mural for the Civic Building in San Jose.

Besides the original color sketch for the San Jose mural, there will be sample tiles, showing the special dull finish textured glaze used, and the architect's drawings, showing how architects and artists work together to incorporate spirit with function in modern buildings.

Although Mr. St. Galy has depicted the specific history of San Jose, beginning with forest, orchards and pastures, growing in population as the result of immigration, the gold rush, and transportation into a thriving residential and industrial center, with television towers and tall buildings against the sky instead of towering redwoods, he has also told the story of California as a whole. He explains that the colors embody the spirit and the lines the facts of history.

Later in the month, Mr. St. Galy, who is an active member and past president of the Carmel Crafts Guild, will put other examples of his work, including the original color sketches for murals in the Christmas spirit which he has done for homes: The Three Wise Men, The Chinese Madonna, and the Madonna which one of the national Christmas card companies has had made into a card this year.

Mr. St. Galy is a member of the Carmel Art Commission.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

The Robert Joffrey Theatre Ballet was the Season's second presentation of the Peninsula Concert Association at Pacific Grove High School last Friday. A full house attendance greeted the dancers, who are on their fourth tour through the country from New York, where their official school has succeeded in producing an outstanding troupe, with choreography of an American modern type. Different in form from classical ballet, though technically incorporating many of its qualities, a distinctive and attractive program with music from classic and modern composers was evolved that held the audience (including many children) spellbound with the springs and joyous subtlety of the themes.

The printed program was considerably altered. A la Gershwin, which ended it in acrobatic dance with mysteriously moving boards, could not claim the beauty that belonged to the Pastorale by Moncion, principal soloist of the New York City Ballet, or the Pas des Deesses by Joffrey to music by Charles Turner and John Field, even though the two pianists, Lalan Parrot and Muriel Kilby, cleverly manipulated Gershwin's strident tones for the 13 performers, including "a voice" of small importance to the whole and barely audible above the pianos.

It was in other groupings that real dancing drama and spirited expression were displayed, particularly by Gerald Arpino, Mary Allen Jackson and Paul Sutherland in Pastorale. The old Chalon lithograph tableaux became beautifully alive with Francoise Martinet, Marie Paquet, Brunilda Ruiz and Nels Jorgensen. There is youthful spontaneity and talent throughout the group, result of the effort of Joffrey to provide guidance and opportunity to rising American dancers in unhackneyed repertoire which showed fine training and enthusiasm, while seldom can one see several men-dancers whose agility compassed every exacting leap and twirl with exceptional ease.

Our fine local artists, Elizabeth du Val, violinist of Hungarian and world fame, Louise Friedhofer-Vadetsky, former first cellist of St. Petersburg Opera and Philharmonic in Russia, and the well-known pianist Camille Olaeta, are now The Peninsula Concert Trio and will be heard in recital Sunday at the Carmel Woman's Club Building. This event should be well attended, for these experienced artists have been generous of their talents in the Monterey Symphony Orchestra and USO, etc.

One could never forget hearing the amazing debut of Yehudi Menuhin in Carnegie Hall at the age of 8, a small boy in a sailor suit electrifying the filled auditorium with his violin! Hepzibah, his sister, also appeared with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra at the same age. These precocious children travelled all over the world in joint recitals until Hepzibah married Lindsay Nicholas and retired to his ranch in Australia. Her famous brother married the daughter of Lord Harcourt, second Admiral of the British Navy, and has permanent residence in Britain now, as well as his sister. Together they are again appearing in violin-piano duos with a first and only recital in California, November 19, at the Opera House in San Francisco.

Unique Hill Theatre Is Featured In Boxoffice Magazine

The Hill Theatre, Monterey, received a two page spread in the 1959 Boxoffice Magazine Theatre Catalog. The Hill was written up as "One of the most unique and different theatres in the United States." The article, complete with pictures, took first place in the yearly issue, with Los Angeles newly remodeled $1,000,000 Vogue, as runner up for honors.

Of particular interest in the article, was the pot bellied stove, used as a ticket box; an ancient printers composing counter, used as the candy counter; and the two toy birds, complete with cage and seed, called Thomas and Jefferson.

Also featured in the article, was a vivid description of the beauties of the Peninsula, particularly Carmel and Monterey.

The Boxoffice Theatre Catalog goes to about 200,000 theatres, studios and architects in Canada, the United States, Mexico and Great Britain.

Committee To Study Parking Permits For Citizens' Group

Admiral C. W. Fisher, chairman of the Carmel Citizens Committee, announces the appointment of the following to the Auto Permit Committee: Frank B. Dickson, Nelo Drizari, Mrs. Jeanie Morgan Klenke, John Payne, Charlotte Townsend, Col. Wesley W. Yale.

When the city council's proposal to install parking meters was brought before the Citizens Committee for recommendation, the membership voted to postpone action until they had first explored Councilman Gunnar Norberg's idea of the city's selling street parking licenses as a revenue raising alternative to the parking meters.

The Citizens Committee is holding a mail election this week for officers and directors for 1960. The nominating committee of Harry Beshore, Captain Henry Gleason and Mrs. W. W. Yale have selected Admiral Fisher, president; Dickson, vice president and treasurer, Mrs. Mary Vickrey, secretary. These are the 1959 officers. Space for write-in candidates has been left on the ballot for use of members who may not wish to confirm the choice of the nominating committee.

Board of directors, in addition to the above officers: Mrs. Dorothy Chapman, Col. Charles B. Hazeltine, Chris Nedderson, Paul West and Col. Yale.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

On Monday next we shall have a new shipment of films. These are beautiful and educational documentary films about Canada, or at least relating to Canada. Because we belong to this free film circuit managed by the Canadian government, all our films have a Canadian slant. We are a little like the minister who could only preach on baptism, so every time he started a sermon on another subject he would talk a minute and then say, "And this brings us to the subject of baptism!" Every talk on films brings us to the subject of Canada. Could you use one? Or two?

James Michener lives in Hawaii, and was ready with a book on his home state about the time it became a state. It is a novel, but being based upon much research, it might almost be called history. Beginning with the creation of the islands, as it is believed to have happened, and carrying on to the present day, this is a big book and possibly a notable one. It finishes with an eight page geneological chart which lists the principal characters and their honorable ancestors. The title of the book is Hawaii.

We are told that Short Term, a novel by Jay Kennedy, has been sold to the movies. It is a story of the people who live in the world of high finance. Mr. Kennedy is president of a brokerage firm and his descriptions of hectic days on the Stock Exchange ring with veracity.

Hartnett Kane wrote twenty books in as many years, a record of some sort, and his latest seems to be a summing up sort of thing in which he recounts with delightful humor his many experiences making speeches and autographing copies of his books. The title is Have Pen—Will Autograph.

A concluding volume in William Faulkner's trilogy about the Snopes family is called The Mansion. The other two books were entitled The Hamlet, and The Town. The action of The Mansion covers the first forty years of this century and is complete in itself, not requiring a knowledge of the other two.

The Education of Hyman Kaplan by Leo Rosten was a riot of a few years ago. This fall now comes yet a new book about the same man and this one called The Return of Hyman Kaplan. Don't miss it! You should think mebbe life could ever be the same without?

In a mechanized age, we have a book on Wood Carving with Power Tools by Ralph Byers. The book is full of pictures. The pictures will instruct you. They will not inspire you because so many of them are so ugly. You can do better than this yourself. But this will show you how.

Organizations Get MPVS Gifts

At the November meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services on Friday afternoon of last week, members voted to purchase a $500 Monterey County Symphony Orchestra life membership, give $400 to the Citizens International Student Committee and $150 to the Christmas Bureau of the Monterey Peninsula.

MPVS finance chairman, Mrs. S. Fletcher Dutton, recommending these gifts, stated that any organization functioning for the benefit of Peninsula communities is eligible to ask for funds from Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services. Requests should be made in a letter giving complete details of need, she added.

The Thrift Shop proceeds supply funds for community gifts. Shop proceeds for October were $1,522, according to Mrs. A. Boyd Mewborn, Thrift Shop chairman, who also asked for articles for Christmas sales at the shop, especially children's clothing and toys.

Election of MPVS officers for 1960 will take place at the December meeting of the group. Mrs. August Nieto, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following recommendations at last week's meeting: president, Mrs. John O. Simpson; vice president, Mrs. E. J. Murray; treasurer, Miss Claire N. Kennedy; recording secretary, Mrs. King Benton; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mildred Prosser Riker; finance chairman, Mrs. Archer M. R. Allen; Thrift Shop chairman, Mrs. William H. Albee.

Nominating committee members recommended by Mrs. Nieto for 1960 were Mrs. Perry Boggess, Mrs. Arthur Dresser, Mrs. Roy W. Elliott, Mrs. W. Lincoln Noelle and Mrs. Rollo H. Payne.

Membership to Monterey Peninsula Services is closed at 200 members and there is a waiting list of prospective members. Admitted as new members this month were Mrs. Stanley E. Bailey, Mrs. Frances Hawley, Mrs. Theodore Karwoska, Mrs. H. A. Holme, Mrs. Colvin Livingstone, Mrs. S. J. H. Rhodes and Mrs. B. F. Weaver.

Katie Gives Up Editorship

Katie Fry, freshman at the University of California, has been non-technical editor of The Engineers, engineering school magazine on the Berkeley campus. However, her mother, Mrs. Marie Fry, received a letter this week saying Katie had given up her editorial job as she found it took too much time from her studies.

Last year Katie was editor of El Padre, Carmel High School yearbook. She is majoring in English and journalism at Cal. At graduation in June, Katie was awarded a Girls' League-PTA scholarship. Previously she had been awarded a California Savings and Loan Association scholarship and a Bank of America scholarship.

Town House Movies, Art Show

On Wednesday afternoon several short color films, with sound, will be shown by Leslie C. Deck at the Carmel Foundation Town House. Auckland Holiday will be about the largest city of New Zealand and its surroundings as a holiday center. Beautiful New Zealand will picture the scenic beauty of the country as a whole. Other films will show the Maori people in native costume and dances, and the Waitoma Caves. Program begins at 3:00 o'clock.

Paintings of Mrs. E. E. Winters of Pacific Grove, who paints under the name of Al Winters, are being shown at Town House during November. Mrs. Winters has studied under Burton Boundey, Harold Landaker, and more recently with Si Ostermeier. Most of the pictures in this exhibition are local landscapes.

John Ephraim Dyer Born

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dyer, by including Ephraim in the name of their fourth child, followed the tradition in Mr. Dyer's family of giving this name to one son in each generation.

John Ephraim weighed eight pounds, four ounces, when he was born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on October 27. His sister, Jane, is almost six years old, and he has two brothers, Stephen, 13, and Peter Jr., 11. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Dyer of Berkeley and Mrs. Walter Lyman Brown of Carmel.

Don Crileys To Move Here

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Criley and their three children, Teddy, five, Don, three, and Megan, one year old, are moving here from Los Angeles after the middle of November. Mr. Criley will be employed by Technical Operations Incorporated, Monterey electronics consultant firm.

Mr. Criley's grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Criley who built a home at Carmel Highlands in 1915. His aunt is Mrs. Russell Williams of Carmel Highlands. He has visited here frequently and is eagerly anticipating becoming a permanent Carmel resident.

Newmans Moving To Carmel

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newman of Claremont and their sons, Marty, seven, and Billy, three, arrive here on Thursday and will stay with Mrs. Newman's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Curtis Gorham, until they find a home in Carmel. The Newmans will be permanent residents as Mr. Newman plans to continue his work as a building contractor on the Peninsula.

Art Association Party

The oil paintings in the November show in the main gallery of the Carmel Art Association were a bright backdrop for the throng of several hundred members and guests at a cocktail-buffet party given by the association on Saturday evening in honor of Art Week.

Decorations embraced the themes of autumn and Thanksgiving with a gilded bronze-paper-feathered turkey on one buffet table, a bountiful cornucopia covered with tawny chrysanthemums in which nestled two real lobsters on the seafood buffet table, and a mammoth champagne glass filled with fall flowers on the punch table.

Major General Frank Dorn, Colonel Mason Wright, Gustav Erbe and Fred Klepich presided at the fourth refreshment table during the evening.

Assisting Art Association President Leslie Emery in receiving the guests and preparing the party were the entertainment committee co-chairmen, Mrs. Douglas MacGregor and General Dorn, and committee members Col. Wright, Mrs. Jeannette Lewis and Mrs. Robert Aurner.

Federal Concert Band which played five concerts weekly in Bay area city parks during the early 1930's. Rollo Walter Brown in his book, I Travel By Train, gave a moving account of a fine performance of these musicians in Union Square in San Francisco.

At this time and during World War II, Mr. Search resided in Orinda. He returned here in 1949 to live in Carmel Valley and, remodelled the old Tularcitos adobe, situated on his 300 acre ranch on the Jamesburg Road, for his home.

Frederick Preston Search served as president of the Musical Art Club here. He was a member of the American Composers' Alliance, National Association for American Composers and Conductors and the Society for Publication of American Music.

For the past ten years, he and his wife, the former Opal Heron whom he married in 1923 in Carmel, have devoted their time to raising black and tan English Shepherd dogs and prize Embden and African geese. Mr. Search was president of the English Shepherd Club of America in 1952.

Other than his wife, he is survived by only one close relative, Mrs. Antone Ara Bia of Carmel.

Private funeral services were held yesterday morning in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea. Inurnment will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery.

Dahl, Investment Counsel, Leader In Youngest Religion

constantly unfolding series of revelations to man by God, as man became ready for them, seemed to him to be the very essence of good sense.

He found that despite their small numbers Americans had played a leading part in the spread of this faith and that some six of the 27 "Hand of the Faith," who serve as a sort of chief administrative body of the Baha'is between conventions, were Americans.

In 1954 Dahl came to Carmel and soon became a Trustee of the Robert Louis Stevenson school on the Peninsula. He has four sons, the oldest of whom is now a sophomore at Stanford. All four attended Stevenson School so that Dahl's interest in its affairs was quite natural.

In response to the question as to whether he had sustained much ribbing because of his activities with what was still a minuscule sect, Dahl smiled and said, "not much. You see, the Baha's Faith is really quite close to a number of others. It believes in life after death, a world order here on earth, and the principles of interracial amity and equality of opportunity for all."

Among the unusual things about the Baha'is, Dahl points out, is that they have no professional clergy and no professional celibacy. They conduct no formal services, and believe that the true site of worship is the beautiful gardens with which they surround their houses of gathering or worship.

Dahl says that his order is growing most rapidly in Africa, Burma, and Germany. The rate of growth in the United States, while not as rapid, has been steady and continuous. The Baha'is attempt to recruit by precept and example, and Dahl himself devotes a considerable portion of his days to speaking and writing for the Baha'is. Nine times a year he travels to Illinois for regular meetings of the chief governing bodies, and one of these days hopes to go to Mt. Carmel in Haifa, Israel, which is the central shrine of all the Baha'is.

In answer to the question of how he has managed to combine a thriving investment counsel business with almost a full-time spiritual effort, Dahl says that there has been no conflict. He comments that if one puts the principles of a belief into practice in everyday life, then one's business and beliefs should never conflict.

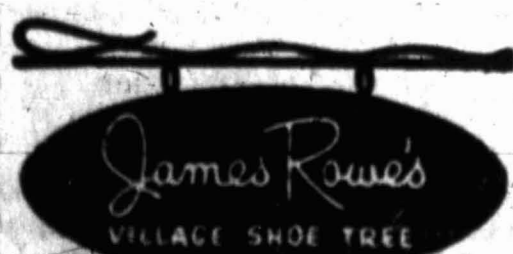

Strongholds of the Baha'is are in California, Illinois and New York in this country, he says, with California showing the greatest rate of growth. Since all offices in the order are elective and since all members may vote, Dahl points out that an American can achieve any office in the structure of the Faith.

Dahl feels convinced that the next few decades will witness the growth of the Baha'is into an important group in this country, and that the next few centuries will see it serve as a focal point for the welding of all the diverse faiths on earth. And whatever small role he may have played in this development, Dahl says it will have given meaning and purpose to his life.
